• Abstract

In today's , Global politics and studying global politics has also become very important In this research paper we have trying to show what is world politics and how important it is to study it. The study of Global politics helps us to understand the important events in international affairs, Problems and global politics study is also important for understanding foreign policy , To find answers to international problems

• Key Words: Global Politics, study of Global Politics

• Introduction :-

Global politics is a new independent field of study. Nationalist relations in : Global politics can be either antagonistic or ally. : Global politics or relations has developed as a separate field of study in modern times. Kautilya , Pluto the ancient Indian industrial thinker preached in his treatise on how one independent state should relate to another. : Global politics is not only limited to politics, but it also considers economic, industrial, social, technological relations as well as political relations between nations or nations. So it can be said that : Global politics or relations are the mutual relations of one nation with another nation

• Global Politics :-

Global politics is the action or reaction arising out of mutual opposition and conflict with regard to the aims or interests of an independent political society. While clarifying the meaning of Global politics, political thinkers have expressed different views, but there is a consensus on one point, that is the dynamic nature of Global politics. It is natural to have a difference of opinion among intellectuals while interpreting. Global politics is shaped by the efforts of all the nations of the world to protect their interests and it gets a specific direction. All the nations of the world start establishing relations with each other to protect their interests. These relations are sometimes of cooperation and sometimes of conflict, thus various types of international activities are taking place among the nations of the world.

Hartmann, "The process by which different states reconcile their national interests with the interests of other states is called international politics."

Some thinkers of Global politics have said that the study of the subject involves the political interaction that takes place in the states of the world. When considering the mutual relationship between the states, they have considered political relations to be of special importance. Some thinkers, however, have taken a broader view. According to him, Global politics includes all kinds of political and non-political relations between states, so he gave more importance to the term international relations instead of international politics.

The nature of Global politics can be seen to have changed in different eras. Today's Global politics has become very broad. In ancient times, this form was very limited. Due to progress and different powers of communication, the change in area has reduced the distance between nations and brought them very close. to each

- The Development Of International Politics

The study of international politics and national relations began after the First World War. The inter-relationships of many countries in the world are created with the formation of nation-states. At the time of the emergence of the state, these relations were formed. There is a lot of information about inter-state relations in ancient history, scriptures, and Kautilya's economics. But its objective and purposeful pre-independent study began after the First World War.

Due to the First World War, many things like world politics, society and economy were affected, so the society started to increase interest in stability, cooperation, peace, human value and the conditions for studying them were created. As the study of international relations began, the period of the last 90-100 years can be called the period of the study of international politics. During this period, some stages of study can be divided based on some major events.

- Importance Of Studying Global Politics

In modern times, the study of Global politics has become very important. As every nation has become interdependent in today's world politics, the importance of studying the subject of human progress and preservation of the human race is increasing. In this subject, the knowledge of how a particular individual and nation behaves in a particular situation is obtained. All the problems, objectives, difficulties related to this subject are studied in this subject. As in natural science, infallible conclusions are drawn. Similarly, no such conclusion can be drawn in the study of international politics. Because it is a social science. The study of the subject depends on tradition, cultural value, human behavior. Similarly, human behavior is always changing, so there is no definite conclusion in this matter. In modern times, this subject is being scientifically and systematically arranged to get a scientific status. National politics has been studied since ancient times. In Ramayana, Mahabharata, Shukriniti, Kautilya's Arthashastra we find thoughts on inter-state relations and foreign policy. The study of ancient and medieval politics from the point of view of the whole state is a guide and useful for the rulers. Today, in the 21st century, the study of Global politics related to foreign policy and diplomacy has become very important. Therefore, the importance of studying the subject of Global politics is specified as follows

- To realize the creation of the universe

The study of Global politics leads to the knowledge of how global politics is moving towards a world state. Efforts to establish world peace and global cultural preservation were known. Equilibrium, collective security, United Nations Organization, disarmament, etc. tools can lead to knowledge of world state formation. There is information about how the federal state, world government will be formed. Today no problem can be confined to one nation or state. For that, it is necessary to solve international problems rather than local and national problems

- To have knowledge of human affairs

In international politics, tactics, intrigues, intrigues and diplomacy are constantly going on. How political leaders, diplomats and the state deal in a particular way in a particular situation. Understanding the causes of prejudice, stress in this is due to the study of this subject. It is a knowledge of how to create a new world by destroying today's crises as soon as possible.

- An international perspective is formed

The foreign policy of every nation is formed by cultivating the national interest, but if the nationalist gains undue importance and becomes aggressive and poisonous, the international system is endangered along with our nation and a great threat to world peace is created. All these are studied in international politics

- An analysis of power politics

The study of Global politics can give you knowledge of human affairs in the international arena. It provides information about how individuals and nations behave in specific situations. It explores how traditional concepts have become obsolete, and what changes are needed, as all major nations are involved in power struggles, with consequences for all smaller nations and, in turn, the world. Without understanding the transformation of politics, we cannot understand our existence in the international arena

- To find answers to international problems

Today Global politics has become very complicated and complex in nature. Analysis of power politics is the study of international politics. If these issues are not resolved, the world will stand on the brink of destruction. At the beginning of the twenty-first century, the world has come to such a turning point that its future will be destructive and beneficial only depending on the path it takes. The interdependence of many nations is increasing day by day in the global system. Therefore, Global politics has acquired a different importance. The whole world is considered as a laboratory for the study of international relations. In which social, psychological, political and economic issues have to be understood. The study of this subject can help understand the causes of conflict.

- To understand important events in international affairs

Important factors in Global politics often affect many nations and their peoples. Citizens of independent countries need to know why, how and for what, how these events happen or are brought about.

- Stopping war and making peace

Man's warlike attitude has become dangerous to social and world peace. It is the need of the hour for humanity to free the human race from the jungle of war and create peace. Every nation in the world is struggling to establish power. Because national interest cannot be achieved without truth. Struggles continue while gaining power. The United Nations tries to prevent war. Thus, the study of Global politics leads to the knowledge of the causes of war and its consequences. Arms opportunity and its impact on world peace is known

- To understand foreign policy

World affairs is a laboratory for the study of international relations. There are many economic, social and political problems faced in world politics, if it is not properly understood, it can lead to global balance, so understanding and solving the global problem is necessary.

- A Study of the Interrelationship of Nation

International politics is the relationship between nations. Whether they are cooperation or conflict has to be studied in international politics. In this view, the strength of the states is the system of governance, it is necessary to study the system of thought adopted by them and the public opinion in the state. On their basis, efforts are made to influence other nations. The relations of nations vary according to circumstances. With the disintegration of Russia, India has to consider its relationship with America

- Conclusion:-

International politics has been a subject since ancient times. The nature of international politics has changed with time. First, the purpose of studying this subject was to analyze it in various factors. Over time, many subjects like sociology, political science, philosophy, science, geography, law are studied in international politics. Today, there are many independent nations in the world. All these nations are studied in international politics. Various business decisions of these nations determine the nature of international relations.

As a whole, the study of global problems in international politics is the prevention of war, peace building, analysis of politics, knowledge of human affairs, creation of a world state, national history is studied at all levels, so international politics has gained importance in international relations. The study of politics has become very important
